Keynotes

Rowena Jacobs is a leading Professor of Health Economics with a Ph.D. from the University of York and an MCom from the University of Cape Town. Her research focuses on mental health economics, policy, and the innovative use of big data to inform mental health policy. She has led significant research projects, collaborated internationally, and influenced mental health policy in several countries. Rowena is recognized for integrating patient and public involvement in research.

Anupam B. Jena is the Joseph P. Newhouse Professor of Health Care Policy at Harvard Medical School and a practicing physician at Massachusetts General Hospital. With degrees from MIT and the University of Chicago, Dr. Jena's research spans health economics, policy, physician behavior, and medical innovation. He hosts the "Freakonomics, MD" podcast, offering unique insights into the healthcare sector.

Minicourse

Observational Methods in Medical and Health Economic Research

Lecturer: Jonathan Siverskog | Time: 8:30 - 10:00 AM, April 15th | Room: IX

Description: The course introduces the challenges of answering causal questions with observational data. Popular research designs to overcome these challenges – including difference-in-differences, instrumental variables, and regression discontinuity—are discussed, and examples of applications in health economics and medical research are provided.

Presentation Guidelines

Presentations: Please plan for a 15-minute presentation followed by a 5-minute Q&A session.

Posters: Create a clear, focused poster (103x143cm standing) with a prominent title, essential text, and impactful visuals.

Conference Dinner

Address: Norrlands Nation, Västra Ågatan 14B, 753 09, Uppsala | Time: 19:00
